AD NAUSEAM

This is AD NAUSEAM 32 - just in case you hadn't guessed from that attempt at the top of the page. It comes from Stephen Pratt, 15 Craneford Close, Twickenham, Middx TW2 7SD. Phone 01-892-6093 at home or 01-836-3694 at the office. That number's new but you can still get me on the old one.

I've been greatly uplifted by the various comments, exhortations etc I've received. Most seem sorry to see AN go (wouldn't have expected those glad to have said anythin though!) - and hoping that the "temporary" depression will have passed. It isn't really a depression at all. I think all of those that wrote expressed appreciation at the projected tidiness of the fold. Poor old Glynn Downton seems to have struck very bad luck. Almost every zine he's decided to play in seems to have since folded. His resignation - probably followed by a disengagement from the hobby is a great pity - a kindred spirit gone I'm afraid.

The other major contact has been from those offering to help me rehouse games. I'm not sure at the motives. Some less altruistic and more 'it would help me to build up subscribers'. Willy Haughan, Paul Willey, Iain Forsyth all offered to run games - and others too made the offer, if I needed help.

I think I'll leave this to the players. I want to finish this as quickly as possible so would be quite keen to see the games go to an entertaining zine provided the players wished it. Putting the games elsewhere would mean I would no longer consider myself responsible for it. That means that players would be relying on their new GMs. They would have to subscribe to that zine - at whatever cost. Anyway it's up to you. AN is not likely to be very entertaining in future issues so maybe a change? Let me know with your orders what you want. Any voice wishing to stay will decide it (so that no-one is forced to move). Only a clear majority to move (ie 1 vote to move and 4 abstentions in a five player game will not be clear enough). OK ? votes with orders please.

2100 BOURSE

Something of a farce this. It seems that there's been a mass desertion from the bourse. I certainly don't all funds of all out to players so why so few orders I wonder? Anyway I'll press on in the hope that it was a temporary group of blindspots.

Andy Tringham did submit some further guesses for the lottery. He seems the only person interested and so I am not continuing this novelty item which really has no place in a zine which is winding down. On the last bets accepted - which I didn't publish last time - Andy won his evens bet that Scandinavia would still be leading after this season (400), but lost his bet that Keith Loveys would NMR in the next 2 seasons (200). His other bet - that there would be an NMR was, fortunately for him, not accepted because his odds were not sufficient.

ps Re your thinly veiled threat to withhold Boardman numbers from me unless I trade with New Swetsman and 1901 aat. I suppose I shall have to submit to your bullying tactics and file the whole matter away under "Outstanding Grudges".

pps I also note your remarks concerning Punk Rock. Pathetic! There are some of us left who reject bland, programmed, safe, soft music designed by a computer to appeal to the widest possible range of non-discriminating people thereby maximising sales and, of course, profits. I could go on but I'll only get annoyed. I wager you bought that Mull of Kraptyre thing (sob)... By the way... if you give me Nor, Den, Kie, Ber & Mun you've got a deal. OK?

Dear Mr. Bullock:

Thank you very much for your letter. I find it most refreshing that someone with your wealth of experience should take the time and effort to instruct a relative beginner in the finer points of the game. I am also most grateful for your kind offer of 2 centres from the potential English/German/Scandinavian total of 12! What have I done to merit such an overwhelming show of generosity?

I note your intention to attack Italy with some surprise, I thought young Tone to be your ally and buddy and find it somewhat strange that you should inform the world of your plans quite so loudly. But then it could all be some kind of double-bluff!.... or maybe I'm supposed to think that and, in fact it's a treble-bluff!.... or maybe ... oh ... sod it ... far too complicated for me. I'll just carry on doing whatever that nice Mr. Taylor tells me to ... far easier on the brain don't you think?

In conclusion, I must apologise for not communicating with you on a more private basis but it seems to me that nine pee is rather an expensive way of saying 'Get Stuffed'. Wouldn't you agree?

Love and Kisses, Eric Willis.

As the board is still waiting threat to attack London p.m. from me in the direction of the German and Italian ... suppose I should have to ...
to ... the ... and ... the ... away ...

At last we're off again - just.

Austria failed to get to Gal in Spring 1902. I omitted to underline his order. In fact it is not acceptable to hope a mistake will go unnoticed. There is no compulsion to point out mistakes to the GM - but I am almost bound to notice typing error-type (!) mistakes anyway. As it was Geoff phoned and thus the awkward situation passed. I think, though, I would have been quite justified in disallowing his order otherwise because it was a mistake he had noticed.

Keith Jewers has moved to House 9c, Ashley Village, Bristol Polytechnic, Frenchay, Bristol BS16 1QY.

Selhurst Park - Maine Road: Financial know-how? Anyone who spends £200000 or more on a mediocre player doesn't know what the word means. By shrewd deals and a good youth policy, Palace have at least three players in the £200000 class, and they paid virtually nothing for them. In addition Peter Taylor cost around £100000 and was sold for £200000, and Mel Blyth was sold to Southampton for £60000 and then borrowed back for nothing. Incidentally I haven't noticed Tony Book being mentioned in connection with the England job.

Germany - World: won't anyone write to me? Have I got B.O. or something?

Munich - Paris: I hope you didn't change your mind? If you didn't then thanks, If you did all I've got to say is ~~*~~!

Austria - his come-uppance has come up.
 England - What's this an Irish army?
 France - The truly old contemptible.
 Germany - Could do with Admiral Rommel
 Italy - Musolini obviously in charge
 Russia - Can't stand the pace
 Turkey - How much did it cost to bribe Tsar Gent?

Moscow: The revolt has been quelled. Many thanks to France for offering to move my troops against Germany.

StP - Vienna: That's SLAV not SLOB.

Diary of a Diplomat: Apologies for the mistake last time (The cream will in future appear at the top of the milk not the bottom.) The American yoghurt seems to have gone sour, (The cows over there can't be twisted you know.) The Scotch eggs are rather tasteless and boring, so we suggest that spaghetti should be eaten with them. We have decided to stop supplying English mustard with our meals because customers have complained about the unpleasant taste it leaves in the mouth. French mustard, altogether more pleasant and palatable, will be provided instead. Unusual demand caused us to run out of German sausage, but new stocks have arrived. They are very spicy and, some might say, overpowering. We no longer recommend either sort of mustard since they no longer appear compatible with the sausages. On Turkish delight, we feel no comment can be made without causing irritation. Cassandra.

MASTERMIND: Quite a good response with only Keith and Tony now lagging behind the rest - I expect them to catch up by next time?

Crossword last time met with a goodish response. Certainly something that I think adds quite a lot to a zine. It is time consuming though. Many of those that had a go carped at the two clues which had five consecutive unfillable gaps before the first and last letter. If only you knew how hard I tried to redesign that part of the diagram. I thought the clues were sufficiently easy - obviously not. The answer to the "blood clot?" clue was what I considered a giveaway if the initial D and final A had been computed - how about DRACULA? Oh well. The other one was a fairly obvious anagram. Still it's always a good bit easier when you already know the answers. If you enjoyed that then there is plenty of it about elsewhere. I particularly recommend Eclipsor - from Paul Willey who was at 31 Burstow Rd, Wimbledon but is believed to be moving soon.

Not a lot else by way of filler. This morning I received 1901aat which arrived with the extremely welcome New Statsman. I finally managed to get my name into a ratings list coming in at 4th equal. Equal with Eric Willis! Yeuk. Still that won't last for long eh Eric!
