Page 2

Welcome to the 49th issue of Dib Dib Dib - sad to say another uninspired issue due to circumstances beyond your editor's control. The cost is a fixed rate of 23p + postage (e.g. 40p in the UK) - which sometimes I might break even on (like this issue) but generally I have to subsidise. Anyone wishing to send money, send it to Tom Tweedy, 29 Stanley Hill Avenue, Amersham, Bucks., HP7 9BD. Tel. 02403 4513, and I'll do my best to see it's put to good use.

EDITORIAL

Well as I quickly pointed out above, another disaster games-only issue. Once again, exactly the same as issue 47, the typewriter/printer has packed up, with exactly the same fault. This is getting to be more than a little expensive, and needless to say, I'm getting more than a little irritated about it. Today is Friday the 5th, and it looks as though I won't be getting the printer back until Monday. Even then I'm not sure it'll work properly. It's some small consolation to say my compute. seems to be working fine - PAH, bloody computers!

I know a games-only issue doesn't give you much value for money but believe me I still don't make a profit out of it, as some of you very well know - most editors subsidise their zine to a great extent. More to the point, it's either that or no issue at all - it just can't be helped I'm afraid. I think it's better in the long run just to put out this meagre offering, as it's important to keep the games going; the games being the ultimate purpose and lifeblood of the magazine. Thankfully, you'll be able to know next issue should make up for it, as it'll be a bumper issue. Yes Peter Urquart Mearns (PUM for short), ex-editor of Puppet Theatre News (PTN or rag for short), the search for the 'Bumper Issue' is finally over! Er, that's if my printer doesn't break down.

Anyway, on to something less irritating - the hobby. First I'd like to give (send?) my best wishes to all students who've been getting in orders, writing and suchlike whilst swotting furiously for their exams. Now they're over, I hope you've done well, and that hobby commitments (especially to Dib) haven't bugged things up for you. Yer doing a grand job. As for the rest of you... wot do you want... RECOGNITION? - be off with you and see to it you get your subs (ugh! - subscriptions) in on time!

Some of you have been asking about the boxed Sopwith set (see letter column, er, next issue). So far as I can gather the game is still being pressed, printed, whatever, but the people to write to, to order or make enquiries is: 'The Gamer', 24 Gloucester Road, Brighton, BN1 4GN. TEL. 0273 698424. The game costs £9.50, the inventor of the game, Dave, is the manager there (I forget his last name).

Zine Poll Game: So far the prize is the magnificent sum of 75p, but right up until the results are made public anyone can join. Just send in your five guesses in the order you think they'll be in when the final result is in, and the closest guess gets the prize. Already we have:-

TOM TWEEDY: 1st Dolchstoss; 2nd Mad Policy; 3rd Ode; 4th Hopscotch; 5th Greatest Hits.

DANIEL BROOKS: 1st Mad Policy; 2nd Ode; 3rd Dolchstoss; 4th Dib Dib Dib; 5th War & Peace.

DAVID ABBOTT: 1st Mad Policy; 2nd Dolchstoss; 3rd Greatest Hits; 4th Hopscotch; 5th War & Peace.

Just got space to mention, don't forget to get your votes in for the Zine Poll, there's still time. The deadline is SATURDAY JULY 20TH and all votes should be sent to Richard Walkerd ne, 144 Stoughton Road, Guildford, Surrey, GU2 6PG. As some underhand threat to his subscribers Richard Sharp mentions the fact that Walkerd ne publishes all the names of the voters, and he'll spot any who don't vote for D - don't need to resort to such tactics. Do I?

JOTTO Turn 5

Sorry but I made a slight mistake with Ulf Jiretorn's 2nd guess last time (actually a typing error), the result should have been: 321124. Has this tiny mistake been spotted by others, and has it put them off? - THREE NMR's!?! Lads, please.... the kitty now stands at a HUGE £5 (with the inclusion of an undesirable this issue who's name I shan't mention, but will just take his money), surely this prize is tempting enough to stay in? Or does this mean Rosie and Kath have actually managed to psyche you all out?

As to your questions, Kath, (1) Plurals? No, no plurals. (2) Are all six letters in the word different? Well surely that must be up to you to find out - good grief I'm not giving the five quid away if I can help it.

KATH COLLMAN: 4th: 231011	R.J. LAMPARD: 5th: NMR'd
