Press

France-England: I'm coming to Morecambe shortly so watch out for bumps in the night.

Vienna-Rome: I hope there is no reason for us to fight in the fall.

Ankara-Moscow: In reply to your offer a PEACE MISSION is on its way to Sevastopol this very minute to discuss terms of ~~arrangement~~ co-operation between our two great nations!

France: I've got the feeling nobody likes me in this game.

Vienna: The Austrian forces were today mobilised against Serbia, the attack proved a total success, all citizens of Serbia are now under the laws of the Austro-Hungarian empire. Let it be known that any attempt to enter by any other country would meet with fierce resistance, and a state of war would then be declared.

Austria-Italy: Who are you trying to kid?

Austria-Russia: You talk the most atrocious dribble at times.

Rome-Phil: See, I kept my part of the bargain.

Italy: All my press this move originates from Italy and not Rome. So the press coming from Rome belongs to Martin.

Italy-Russia: Stalemate I believe.

Italy-Germany: I suppose you thought that was funny.

Berlin-Rome: I don't believe you, sorry!

Italy: Come on lads, 4 against 1 is not very fair.

Berlin-France & England: Unite now, it's our only chance! Choosing an ally out of Italy and Russia is similar to making choice between a firing squad or a noose.

Constantinople-Friend: This is getting pretty BORING!

Italy-Germany: ((again?)) My postman thought it was funny and his birthday is on April "Fools" Day.

Italy-Turkey: We must come to an arrangement.

Italy-England: I am coming as quickly as I can (!!)). Hold on, he cannot take anything more off you unless he builds. I hope you all understand what those last three words mean.

Italy-France: Kindly remove your fleet or I'll obliterate you.
